Legal framework: This policy is subject to United Kingdom data protection and privacy legislation. We will not disclose data about living individuals where this is prohibited under applicable law. Most Thrive publications are copyright, and may be reproduced for non-commercial work, but not for resale. Any request to reproduce copyright material should be addressed to Thrive using the email address on the Thrive website.

If we do not give information requested, we will say why. This may include:

- Where it could jeopardise Thrive operations or safety of people and partners,
- Where information is confidential to the people concerned,
- Where information is under someone else's copyright,
- Where the cost and time of disclosure would be disproportionate to the request,
- Where it is confidential for legal, commercial or contractual reasons,
- Where historic information is not relevant to Thrive current operations,
- Where it concerns internal plans or drafts,
- If the request was made in an offensive manner.

Requests for information can be sent by email. We aim to respond within 20 days.
